ABOUT CRIE

The Centre for Research in International Education (CRIE) was established a decade ago, in order to provide a forum for discussion, conferences, research, publication, collaboration, etc in the field of international education. However, the field has changed in the intervening period, as international education has gained in importance as an export revenue-earner, a passport to employability, a stepping stone to migration, a challenge to conflicting curricula and pedagogies, etc.

- Emerging economies
