

Many Paths to Impact

Panel Discussion

Real-world impact is an increasingly important outcome indicator for both universities and researchers. Join us for a discussion with leading AUT researchers who will share their impact paths.

Our panellists will share their impact journeys, from transforming concussion management in sports, to maintaining meaningful work, to a spinout contributing to earthquake resilience in buildings.

This event is ideal for AUT staff and postgraduate students interested in creating real-world impact through paths such as policy, education, and commercialisation.
